Emerald fairways by a sapphire sea

A breathtaking backdrop of mountains and sea is reward in itself at Royal County Down, but the golfer who strays can pay devastating penalties in the fierce rough and bewildering frequency of traps that make the championship course one of Ireland's best. It is an added hazard, too, that the 2nd, 5th, 6th, 9th and 16th holes all call for blind tee shots, and others, such as the 13th, offer only markers to guide approach shots to unseeable greens.
