"Alister MacKenzie's Course"

"A really great golf course must be a constant source of pleasure to the greatest possible number of players. It must require strategy in playing as well as skill. It must give the average player a fair chance and at the same time, it must require the utmost from the expert player. All natural beauty should be preserved; natural hazards should be utilized and artificiality should be minimized." Alister MacKenzie's ability to incorporate this philosophy is never more present than at Pasatiempo. The 15th - 141 yards and 18th - 169 yards, show this hallmark off with distinct naturalness while at the same time suggesting to each player that he should be careful what he wishes for!

This master piece, Alister MacKenzie's course, has truly withstood the passage of time.
