Opened in 2000, Kingsbarns Golf Links has maintained its tradition since 1850. The new Kingsbarns may have sod bunkering and a stunning, raw links location, but at 7181 yards, there is no mistaking it for old-school. Designers, Mark Parsinen and Kyle Phillips elevated the tees just enough to make landing zones easily identifiable, and the multiple boxes offer different angles on each hole. The greens are as tough to score on as any in Scotland with subtle contours, tiers and ridges to drive one mad on your first round. Kingsbarns has tall trees in play, not many but a small cluster near the 11th and 15th greens. The standout holes are the par-5 12th at 606 yards and the par-3 15th at 212 yards which is gaining a reputation as one of Scotland's finest par 3s. Both play around the rocky shore of St. Andrews Bay. ..And then there is the 18th, designed for maximum drama, with an elevated green perched over a burn...Kingsbarns is a fine modern edition to the game's storied old grounds!
